SPECIAL MERITS.

It can be learned in one-third the time the pencil systems require.

All its work is uniform and mechanically exact.

Its use is pleasant, and does not strain the eyes, hands or body.

It can be operated in the dark as well as in the light.

It can be used upon the lap in a public assembly, without attracting notice.

The writing of one operator can easily be read by another.

The work can be performed with little fatigue.

Pen paralysis is not possible.

It can be used without looking at it, leaving the eyes free to follow the speaker's motions.

We claim that we have in the Stenograph a system of shorthand as rapid as any other, the most exact and uniform, the least tiresome in practice, and by far the most easily and quickly learned.

The Stenograph is taught in the largest Business Colleges in various parts of the United States. Machines sold and instructions given by
